Public Involvement in Education and Research Strategy 2020-2025

Introduction

The BU PIER Partnership

The PIER (Public Involvement in Education and Research) Partnership is an award-winning initiative at Bournemouth University. The partnership, developed within the Faculty of Health and Social Sciences, has a core team of two public involvement coordinators: Angela Warren and Peter Atkins; and an Academic lead: Dr Mel Hughes who is Associate Professor in Social Work. Angela, Peter and Mel have their own lived experiences as patients, service users or carers as well as expertise in the coordination of public involvement in health and social care education and research. The BU PIER partnership has over 100 individual members (people with lived experiences relevant to health and social care) and collaborates with local, regional and national health, social care and community organisations, research bodies and Higher Education Institutes (HEIs). The PIER Partnership is able to harness a wealth of expertise from its diverse membership and wider network, particularly regarding lived experiences, which can inform our goals to help people live better for longer and challenge marginalisation, misinformation and under-representation. The PIER Partnership is well positioned as a BU resource for engaging the wider community to inform education, research and professional practice across the institution.

BU PIER Partnership vision, values and approach

Our vision is for those who are most affected by health and social inequalities to lead the way in shaping responses and improving outcomes and impact. People with lived experience will play an integral role in all stages of the student journey and research cycle at Bournemouth University.

The BU PIER partnership is underpinned by shared values and goals of humanised and relationship-based models of collaboration. Activity is based on meaningful engagement where everyone involved feels valued and respected for their lived experience and expertise.

Our approach is to develop inclusive models of collaboration in education, research and practice based on parity of participation. This means that people from marginalised and seldom heard groups are involved as equal partners; and a diverse range of people are enabled to participate in ways which work best for them. People with lived experience are supported to contribute as consultants; reviewers; researchers; facilitators and assessors due to the expertise they have and the perspectives they can share.

BU PIER Partnership 2025 five-year strategy

BU 2025 vision is to be 'recognised world-wide as a leading university for inspiring learning, advancing knowledge and enriching society through the fusion of education, research and practice' (BU2025 vision). The PIER strategy 2025 outlines the BU PIER Partnership's five year plan for ensuring that the expertise of people with lived experience (including patients, potential patients, carers and people who use or represent people who use health and social care services) underpins and informs this vision. Five key objectives have been identified to align the work of the PIER Partnership with the BU2025 vision and strategic plan

BU PIER Partnership 2025 key objectives:

- 1) Enhance the student experience
- 2) Increase research and knowledge exchange income
- 3) Harness the knowledge and expertise of PIER members
- 4) Increase external collaboration and impact
- 5) Contribute to the achievement of the UN Sustainable Development goals (SDGs)

How the PIER 2025 strategy was developed

Initial work on developing the new strategy started in 2019, when it was one of the discussion topics at the Autumn PIER members meeting. A members' survey followed in Spring 2020 to identify priorities and areas of interest from PIER members. Responses were used to inform the underpinning vision, values and approach identified in this strategy. Specific priorities identified by members included commitment to involvement in both education and research activity; interest in engaging in different types and approaches to involvement; a desire to be involved in co-created activities and resources. The vision, values and approaches were then aligned to the BU 2025 vision and strategic plan and demands and requests from within the academic community. Feedback and suggestions from academic colleagues were incorporated into the strategy. A sub-group of PIER members (selected following a request for expressions of interest from the whole group) reviewed final drafts of the strategy to consider how PIER members' priorities had been incorporated and how the proposed strategy aligns with the BU 2025 vision. This led to the strengthening of objectives and actions relating to the need to harness the expertise of PIER members, ensure adequate funding and resourcing of PIER activity and to increase opportunities for training and support. The strategy was then submitted for approval by the Faculty of Health and Social Sciences Executive team.
